

IACUC Introduces an Expanded List of Standard Procedures for use in Animal Use Protocols

The IACUC has been working with investigators from Radiology and Immunology to develop new Standard Procedures. These documents will be on the IACUC website, <http://www.iacuc.ucsf.edu/Policies/awPolicies.asp>, and may be utilized when completing the IACUC Animal Use Protocol.

Incorporating these standardized procedures into your Animal Use Protocol will provide investigators with a standardized and consistent set of procedures of which the IACUC has already approved. However, it is imperative that all lab members who are performing these procedures are familiar with them and follow them exactly or include in your application for review any deviation from these standards.

If you are interested in proposing additional standard procedures for those that are commonly performed by investigators in your department, please work with your department chair and then contact the IACUC office at iacuc@ucsf.edu.
