

COMING SOON!

The Cell Culture Facility will launch a searchable database of cell lines in stock and available for purchase as frozen vials or growing cultures.

The Cell Culture Facility (www.ccf.ucsf.edu) owns more than a thousand cell lines. These are available to UCSF researchers, with no need for an MTA, license, or Purchase Order. They include commonly used immortalized cell lines, lines only available from the CCF, very low passage stocks, and primary cells. Passage number and provenance are documented for all cell lines. Researchers can save time (pickup or delivery on campus) and money (cost significantly less than commercial sources) as well as minimize the possible uncertainty resulting from borrowing from colleagues. The initial database will consist of approximately 300 lines, expected to launch in April 2007, with lists continually updated until the full roster is represented. Please contact Dr. Linda M. Reilly with any questions (lreilly@ccf.ucsf.edu) and watch our website!
