

Clinicaltrials.gov—Registration Guidance

NIH has provided updated guidance on use of ClinicalTrials.gov at <http://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/notice-files/NOT-OD-08-014.html>

Public Law 110-85, enacted on September 27, 2007 amends the Public Health Service Act to expand the scope of clinical trials that must be registered in Clinical.Trials.gov. It also increases the number of registration fields that must be submitted, requires certain results information to be included, and sets penalties for noncompliance.

This NIH notice provides information for NIH grantees and contractors on new responsibilities related to the first part of this law, the registration of clinical trials. Clarification is provided on determining who is responsible for registering, and in certain cases the investigator at UCSF may be the responsible individual and must take appropriate registration action.

Please distribute this notice on to all investigators within your department or unit receiving NIH funding. Questions regarding this notice may be directed to Debbie Caulfield at debbie.caulfield@ucsf.edu.
